2. Procedures

- 2.1 Work equipment is any equipment which is used by an employee at work. The range of work equipment is extremely wide and could cover everything from a spanner to a tower crane, from an office chair to a care home bed. Where employees use their own equipment for work all regulations will apply as they would to equipment provided by the employer. Employees must ensure that the employer has been advised and given agreement to the employee using their own equipment prior to using it and that the equipment has been tested for safe usage and is used in accordance with manufacturers guidance.

- 2.2 The Health and Safety Executive have a Work Equipment Micro Site, which includes free downloadable guidance to the regulations 'Safe Use of Work Equipment' L22, and a short guide 'Simple guide to the Provision and Use of Work Equipment Regulations 1998' INDG 291 (see links below).
- 2.3 Managers should use these and other guides (detailed below), as well as manufacturer's instructions to help with the risk assessment process and with the required management of work equipment.
